7. On 12 January, the Reuss Kaserne was still occupied as had previously been observed. On 30 December, 2 prime movers, each towing a 100-mm AT gun and carrying 10 soldiers were seen in the barracks yard. The guns were subsequently emplaced. About 70 soldiers received close-order drill. On 9 January, about 60 soldiers received gun drill with 4 x 100-mm AT guns and 2 x 120-mm field howitzers in the barracks yard. On 11 January, 4 prime movers, each towing a 122-mm field howitzer, and 2 trucks, each carrying about 35 men left the installation toward Langenberg. At about 1 p.m., 2 prime movers, each towing a 100-mm AT gun entered the installation, coming from the direction of Hainberg. On 12 January, 3 prime movers, each towing a 100-mm AT gun and 2 trucks entered the installation, coming from the direction of Langenberg.

8. On 12 January, the Panzer Kaserne in Tinz quartered about 300 to 350 men. Between 28 December 1953 and 12 January 1954, about 60 soldiers daily received basic training with carbines in the barracks area. No vehicular traffic was noticed. 1

9. Not less than 6 x 100-mm AT guns were parked in roofed sheds, with only the barrels protruding from loopholes, pointing toward north. A dummy village was established a distance of 750 to 1,000 meters from the guns. Uniformed women were also seen in the emplacement. On 7 January, about 120 soldiers engaged in field training in the training area on Hainberg hill. They returned to the Reuss Kaserne at about 4 p.m. 3

1. 2. Comment. 578th AT Arty Regt of the 308th Arty Brig (US) in Gera until 10 November 1953.
3. Comment. These observations refer to the garrison training grounds west of Tinz which has apparently been enlarged in the fall of 1953. The installations described above probably serve for AT gun firing with mounted rifle barrels.
